

President to New York. In the station a large crowd, including many of the commuters from arriving trains, jammed the concourse. On the arrival platform Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Col. E. M. House, the President's close adviser, and Joseph R. Wilson of Baltimore, the President's brother, waited to greet him.

RAILROAD MEN GIVE HIM HEARTY WELCOME.

Across the deep trenches between the concrete platforms swarms of railroad men in overalls climbed when they saw the train coming in and quickly formed a reception committee to give Mr. Wilson a hearty welcome. When he emerged from his car they set up a cheer and three times three; as the crowd proceeded down the long platform they shouted their hurrahs.

In less than a minute hundreds of people were scrambling, cheering, pushing and struggling around the President on the narrow platform. They consisted of railroad workers, passengers from sleepers on the regular train to which the private car was attached and a small number of New Yorkers who had admission inside the gates.

The Secret Service guards formed a cordon around President and Mrs. Wilson in almost useless endeavor to keep back the crowds. Everybody was laughing, cheering, and good-natured. Some uniformed policemen ran to help but they were instantly swallowed up in the crush that edged itself along toward the open concourse.

As the President passed the electric locomotive that had drawn his train from Harmon, the engineer leaned far out of his cab window and waved a salute, to which Mr. Wilson raised his hat, and the crowd again cheered. As the party emerged from the gloomy underground arrival platform into the bright sunlight of the concourse two thousand persons joined in another cheer that the vociferous railroad men started. Instead of the customary quick dash through side doors and avoidance of crowds, the President, with Mrs. Wilson by his side, walked across the room through a narrow lane formed by lines of policemen and passed out of the front door into Forty-second Street, where automobiles waited for the party.

The crowds overran everybody save the President. Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Grayson were caught in the swirl and widely separated from their chief. Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's daughter, and her companion, Miss Bones, were lost completely for a few minutes. Joseph Wilson struggled to keep near, but an eddy of humanity swirled him off to one side.

GOES TOO FAST TO BE RECOGNIZED.

Out on the sidewalk the party was finally brought together again by good natured assistance of the crowd. The President stood up for a moment in his automobile and bowed acknowledgments to the cheers of the crowd.

On the way to the yacht club pier at Twenty-third Street he was cheered two or three times by crowds on the sidewalks, but the journey was made too fast for him to be recognized. At the pier Capt. Berry of the Mayflower received the President and escorted him to a launch, which quickly ran alongside the ship. Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Bones left the President on the way to the pier and started on a shopping tour in Fifth Avenue. At noon the ladies went to the Waldorf where they received a committee of ladies from the Sixty-ninth Regiment bazaar and accepted an invitation to visit the army during the afternoon, while the President was being entertained at luncheon and making a speech in the Waldorf.

A notable feature of the reception to the President at night at Madison Square Garden will be the outpouring of Tammany men. Among the thousands who are to take part in the parade will be Wilson and Marshall clubs, and the Wilson College Men's League under "Big Bill" Edwards.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, will walk at the head of the parade with the sachems of Tammany, and will occupy a box at the Madison square Garden meeting. The doors of the Garden are to be open at 6 P. M. and admission to most of the seats is without ticket.

No great has been the demand for seats that carpenters have put in about $500 extra, and the accommodations have been increased to 14,000. It has become obvious that even at this the crowd will more than fill the Garden, so five overflow meetings have been arranged. Speakers have been arranged for and an effort will be made to get the President to make a five-minute address at each of the overflow stands.

Preparatory to the mass meeting will be the great torchlight parade in which Tammany expects to "do herself proud." Sheriff "Al" Smith, Thomas F. McAvoy and Frank J. Goodwin have made the arrangements, which contemplate the lining up of 15,000 Tammany voters from every Assembly district in the city and 6,000 younger Democrats, youths from each of the districts who have not yet reached the voting age. It is expected at least 25,000 will be in line.

The Tammany men will form from Fifth Street north, and the procession will start from Fifth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street at 8 o'clock. The line of march will be down Fifth Avenue. At Twenty-sixth Street the men, forming the larger part of the parade, will turn east and march into the Garden—as many of them as can get in. The younger element will continue down to Cooper Union, to attend a meeting held specially for them. At this Cooper Union meeting the boys are to be addressed by various speakers, the general topic being "The Flag." After he has spoken at Madison Square Garden the President is expected to go to Cooper Union and speak to the boys. It has been arranged, too, that there shall be an overflow meeting on Ninth Street which the President may also address.

U-BOAT DISPUTE MAY BE REOPENED, HINT OF LANSING

Germany May Raise the Question as to Whether the Marina Was Armed.

WAITS FOR ALL FACTS.

Count von Bernstorff Believes Mine Sunk the Ship, Not a Torpedo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Re-opening of the entire armed merchantman controversy between this Government and Germany, is certain if it is proved the British steamer Marina was armed at the time she was sunk and was sunk by a German submarine. This was indicated today by statements of Secretary Lansing.

Secretary Lansing said the United States understands Germany's pledge not to sink merchantmen without warning and providing for the safety of passengers and crews applies to ships with defensive armament. No distinction was drawn in the correspondence between armed and unarmed ships, and the State Department does not accept any contention that Germany's responsibility is limited to those without armament.

It is admitted that Germany has taken a distinct view of the status of armed ships, and it is thought probable that she will attempt to inject the point into the present situation. It is thought possible Germany may use the Marina case to settle the issue.

Secretary Lansing, while refusing to give out any further details of the official report of the sinkings from the American Embassy in London, said his information was substantially the same as that of the newspapers.

Germany, and Austria on Feb. 10, in substantially the same terms, notified the United States to the following effect: "Enemy merchantmen armed with guns no longer have the right to be considered as peaceable merchant vessels of commerce. Therefore, the German naval forces will receive orders to treat such vessels as belligerents."

In accepting the American note on the Sussex, demanding the abandonment of its submarine warfare against "passenger and freight carrying vessels," Germany said such vessels should not be sunk without warning and without providing for the safety of passengers and crew.

"Unless the ships attempt to escape or offer resistance."

At the German Embassy today it was said no word of the Marina case could be had from Berlin until submarines operating in those waters had reported to the Admiralty.

Ambassador Bernstorff expressed the personal opinion that the vessel was mined and not torpedoed. The story that two submarines were concerned in the attack he declared to be most unusual. The alleged torpedoing first on one side of the vessel and then on the other also made him believe the vessel was mined, he said.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A telegram to the American Embassy today from Wesley Frost, American Consul at Queenstown, states that the discrepancies in former reports regarding the number of Americans on board the Marina and the names of those lost have now been cleared up.

In addition to the five Americans reported yesterday as having perished, the name of Buie, given in earlier advices as Buie, is added to the list of dead.

The name of Middleton, first reported lost, is now known to be of an American survivor. These changes make the total number of Americans on board fifty-two, of whom six were lost.

"Mr. Morgan's promotion," says Comptroller Frederick, "is a recognition of the excellent work he has done as Secretary of the department and is in line with my policy to confine appointments, if possible, to men who have done efficient work within the city service."

SAKHAROFF SENT INTO DOBRUDJA TO HALT MACKENSEN

Russian General Who Gained Big Successes in Galicia Gets New Command.

GERMANS CLAIM GAIN.

Declare They Have Won Important Victories Near Red Tower Pass.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Wireless Press has received a despatch from Bucharest saying that Lieut.-Gen. Vladimir Sakhharoff, commander of the Russian forces in Galicia, arrived in Bucharest today to take command of the Army in Dobrudja.

Lieut.-Gen. Sakhharoff is rated as one of the ablest Russian commanders. He came into special prominence last summer during the Russian drive in Volhynia and Galicia, gaining a number of important successes over the Austrians before the Russian advance was halted.

BERLIN, (via wireless to Sayville, L. I.), Nov. 2.—Enemy warships have shelled the Roumanian Black Sea port of Constanta, recently captured by the Germans and Bulgars, without success, it was officially announced today.

Roumanian attacks against the Austro-German troops that had advanced beyond Altschanz and Predal pass failed under losses," the war office stated. "We captured eight officers and 200 men. South of Red Tower pass engagements which are favorable to us continue."

On the Macedonian front, Serbian advances in the Cerna head and north of Nidze Planina were repulsed. The Struma front there have been active foreground engagements."

PERICHA, Nov. 2.—Field Marshal Mackensen has halted in advance in Dobrudja, apparently because of a shortage of men to protect his long line along the River Danube.

Despatches from Bucharest declare that Mackensen has been forced to send several regiments to the Transylvanian front to aid Falkenhayn. The withdrawal of these troops is said to have checked his offensive operations.

Practically everywhere along the Transylvanian front excepting south of Red Tower Pass, the Roumanians are holding their own. The Austro-Germans have been checked in their advance on the Cerna head and are turning their heavy attacks on the Alt Valley, where the loss of two villages by the Roumanians was officially conceded yesterday.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 2.—Thirtieth century methods of warfare were used by the Roumanians in winning their victory over the Germans near the Vulkan pass.

The Roumanians first attacked the German front in considerable force. As the Teutons began to retreat Roumanian detachments stationed on the heights of the narrow valley hurled tree trunks down the sides, barring the progress of both infantry and artillery.

Roumanian forces continued to pursue the retreating Austro-German troops to the west of the Jui valley, in Transylvania, according to the Roumanian official report. Teuton attacks were repulsed after continued fighting in the Prabhova valley and in the region of Dratolav. East of the River Alt a battle still is in progress.
